Sam Spiegel Film and Television School

Established in 1989 by the Ministry of Education and the Jerusalem Foundation, the Sam Spiegel Film and Television School has been a leader in Israeli culture and the main backbone of the Israeli film and television industry.

Our supporters and friends, and their recognition of our mission, has allowed us to thrive as trailblazer of authentic storytelling.

The School's move from its historic location after 33 years to the new Arts Campus in central Jerusalem fosters collaborations, integration becoming a creative home.

International Film Lab

The Labs are run under the auspices of the Sam Spiegel Film and Television School and were launched to create a bridge between Israeli and International creators, the international professional industry, and audiences. The Labs support bold storytellers who look deeply into the human experience in search of their unique truth

The Lab has developed 126 films, from 46 countries around the world

45 of them have already been released and about 10 more are already in the final stages of production

75% of the released ones premiered at international A list film festivals, such as Cannes, Berlin, Venice, Toronto, Sundance and more

The produced films have won dozens of awards, including the Oscar for Best Foreign Film for Son of Saul Hungary

69 Israeli projects received international exposure as part of the Lab.

Series Lab

- The Series Lab is a creative bridge between Israeli talent in scripted series and the international TV industry.
- Since 2022 and supported by Netflix, the Lab assists in voicing the region's diverse and unique stories
- exposure event at leading venues, including Los Angeles and Series
